Tables of Contents

The Federal Regional Yellow Book contains the following tables:

- ▶ Master Table of Contents (pages iii and iv)
- ▶ Section Tables (at the beginning of each section)
- ▶ Departmental Tables (at the beginning of each department). The departmental tables use a system of indents to represent the hierarchical structure of the departments.

Major Categories of Federal Government Employment

Special coded symbols preceding an individual's title are used to identify positions or individuals in the largest categories of federal employment outside the regular civil service.

▶ Presidential Appointment

A bold star [★] preceding an individual's title indicates that the position is subject to Senate confirmation. An open-faced star [☆] preceding an individual's title indicates that the incumbent in the position is appointed by the President and does not require Senate confirmation.

▶ Senior Executive Service

The Senior Executive Service (SES) is a personnel system covering top-level executive, policy-making, managerial and supervisory positions. SES appointees do not require Senate confirmation, but their selection is regulated by the Office of Personnel Management. In the hierarchy of the federal government, SES members rank just below the top presidential appointees who head the departments and agencies. Positions may be specified as general (to be filled by either career or noncareer SES members) or career reserved.

A bold dot [●] indicates that the SES member is a career employee. This means that the individual is filling a position in either the career reserved or general categories of SES employment. Career reserved positions are those positions that must be filled by career appointees in order to ensure the public's confidence in the impartiality of the government. Tax, law enforcement, and contract administration positions are typical examples. Career appointment to a position in the general category of the SES is identical to that in the career reserved category. There are limitations to ensure that most of the general positions are filled by career appointees at any given time.

An open-faced dot [○] indicates that the SES member is a noncareer employee. Noncareer SES appointees receive noncompetitive appointments to SES positions that normally involve advocating, formulating and directing the policies and programs of the administration in power or require maintenance of a relationship of trust and confidentiality with the agency's top executives.

▶ Career Senior Foreign Service Appointment

An open-faced diamond [◇] preceding an individual's title indicates that the incumbent is a Career Senior Foreign Service member. Members of the Senior Foreign Service comprise the corps of senior leaders and experts for the management of the Foreign Service and the performance of its functions. Senior career members are appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate usually through the promotion of career members of the Foreign Service.

▶ Schedule C Appointments

An open-faced square [□] preceding an individual's title indicates that the incumbent in the position is appointed under Schedule C of the civil service rules. These regulations allow the Office of Personnel Management to exempt from the competitive civil service positions of a policy-making role or positions that require a close, confidential working relationship with the agency head or other key officials of the agency. Schedule C appointees serve at the pleasure of the agency head.

► Postal Career Executive Service

A bold square [■] preceding an individual's name indicates that the individual is a member of the Postal Career Executive Service (PCES). The PCES is an internal staffing category of the United States Postal Service. The PCES develops and maintains a group of employees for key management positions. There are two levels in PCES: Level I includes district, area, and headquarters executives, and Level II consists of U.S. Postal Service officers, including vice presidents.

Maps

A map displaying the Ten Standard Federal Regions is located on page xv. The remaining maps detail regions with irregular boundaries.

Indexes

Three indexes have been prepared to assist readers in locating specific information quickly and easily.

- The Geographic Index has been provided to assist you in locating listings in a given area. A parent department or agency is identified under the city heading, which appears under its state or territory heading.
- The Name Index has been provided to assist you in locating an individual who is listed in the Federal Regional Yellow Book, even if you do not know for which department or agency he or she works.
- The Organizational Index has been provided to assist you in locating sub-offices that appear within the departments and independent agencies.

Dialing International Telephone and Fax Numbers

With the exception of Canada and the Caribbean Islands, all international long distance calls from the United States begin with 011.

Federal Citizen Information Center

Pueblo, CO 81009

Toll-free Tel: (800) 333-4636

The Federal Citizen Information Center (FCIC) was established in February 2000 as the result of a merger of the Consumer Information Center (CIC) and the Federal Information Center (FIC). The merger combined the CIC web site (www.pueblo.gsa.gov), the Consumer Information Catalog, and the Pueblo publication distribution program with the FIC nationwide toll-free telephone assistance center. The new FCIC now serves as a one-stop source for answers to questions about consumer problems and government services.

The call center of the Federal Consumer Information Center serves as a single point of contact for individuals with questions about Federal agencies, programs and services. The staff can answer questions in English and Spanish about all aspects of the Federal government or direct callers to an appropriate contact. The public can access the call center by calling toll-free (800) 333-4636 (TTY 800-326-2996) between 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. EDT.
